Note: High-rate facilities have an overall rate of sexual victimization, as reported in table 3 of the full report, in which the lower bound of the confidence interval is larger than 1.25 times the national average, among facilities within the same type of interview consent. Facilities housed males only unless otherwise noted. Of the 327 facilities on which the national estimates are based, 113 had enough completed interviews to qualify as high- or low-rate. See Terms and definitions in the full report for information about the type of incident.

^aExcludes acts in which there was no report of force or coercion. Called “youth-on-youth” in prior reports.

^bFacility housed both males and females. Both were sampled at this facility.

^cFacility housed females only.

The Bureau of Justice Statistics of the U.S. Department of Justice is the principal federal agency responsible for measuring crime, criminal victimization, criminal offenders, victims of crime, correlates of crime, and the operation of criminal and civil justice systems at the federal, state, tribal, and local levels. BJS collects, analyzes, and disseminates reliable statistics on crime and justice systems in the United States, supports improvements to state and local criminal justice information systems, and participates with national and international organizations to develop and recommend national standards for justice statistics. Jeffrey H. Anderson is the director.

These tables were prepared by Amy Lauger. Michael Field verified the tables.

Morgan Young and Theodore Robinson edited the tables. Morgan Young produced the tables.
